TITLE OF SUBMISSION: A Sneak Peek into SG75

SUMMARY: In this comic, we follow two characters, a teenage boy and a scientist, who are about to see into the future of Singapore in 2040. As they whoosh through different parts of Singapore, such as schools, parks, and roads, they explore how Singapore has grown. They observe how Singapore has developed a more sustainable environment. And they observe how Singapore has used technological advancements in their favour to better education. Similarly, automation is used to take over tasks that are repetitive and time consuming to allow the allocation of labour to other more demanding areas. And after whooshing through all these wonders, they look at Singapore 2040 one last time from a bird's eye view to take it all in.
